

ONCE A SOLDIER

ALWAYS A SOLDIER

Tied with a bond. Tied with responsibility.
Tangled in a life they choose to be.

Photos of my father
As a new officer in 1991

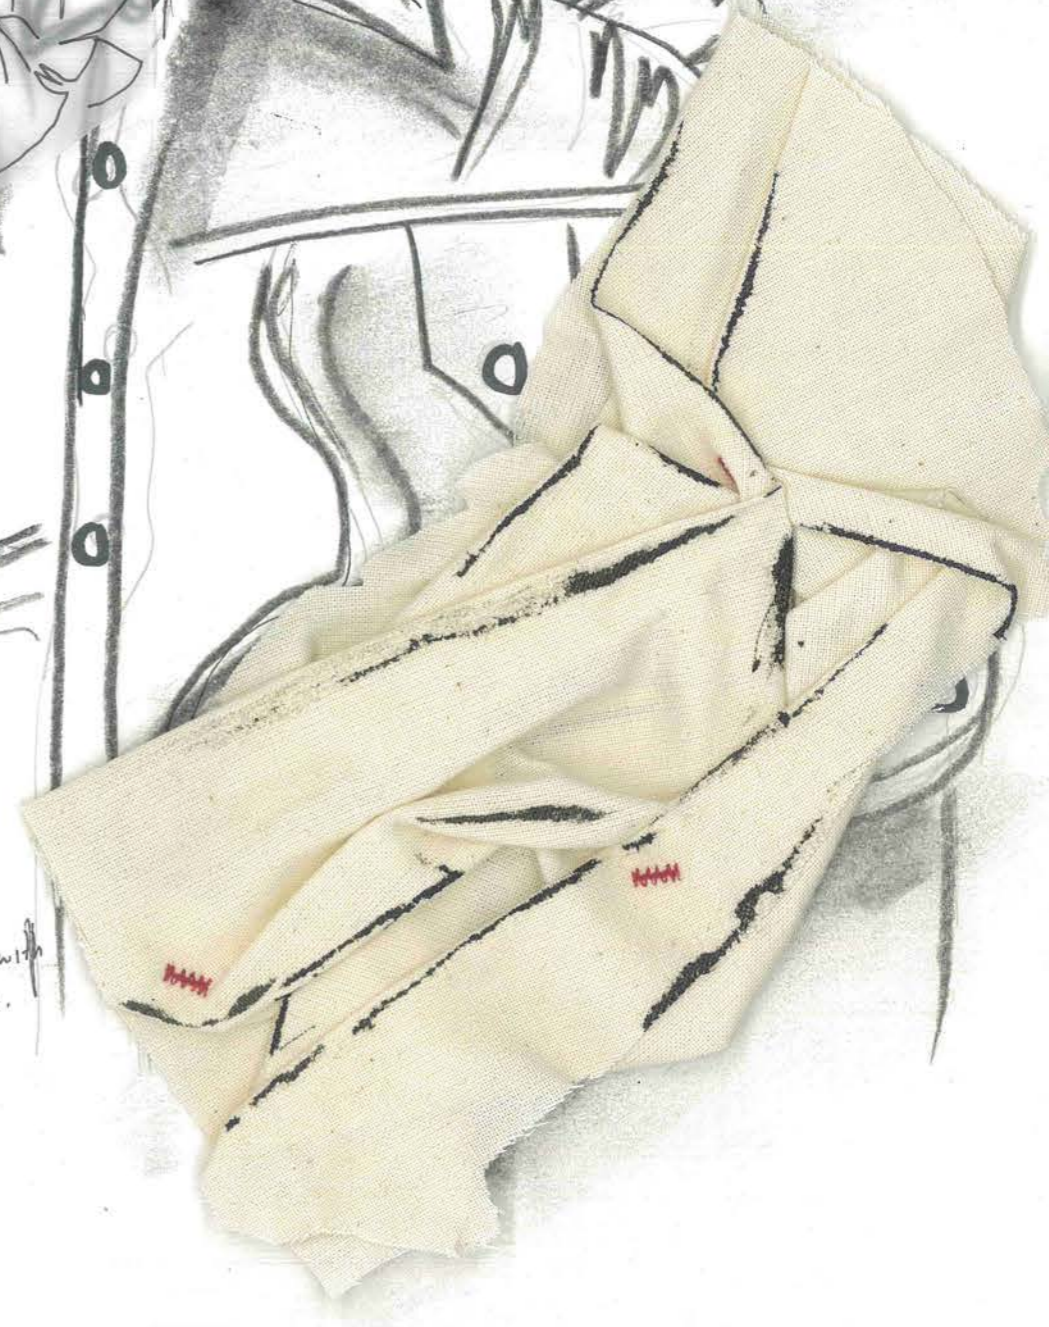

Draping with the inspiration and developing it to design.

taking the dramatic piece to design.

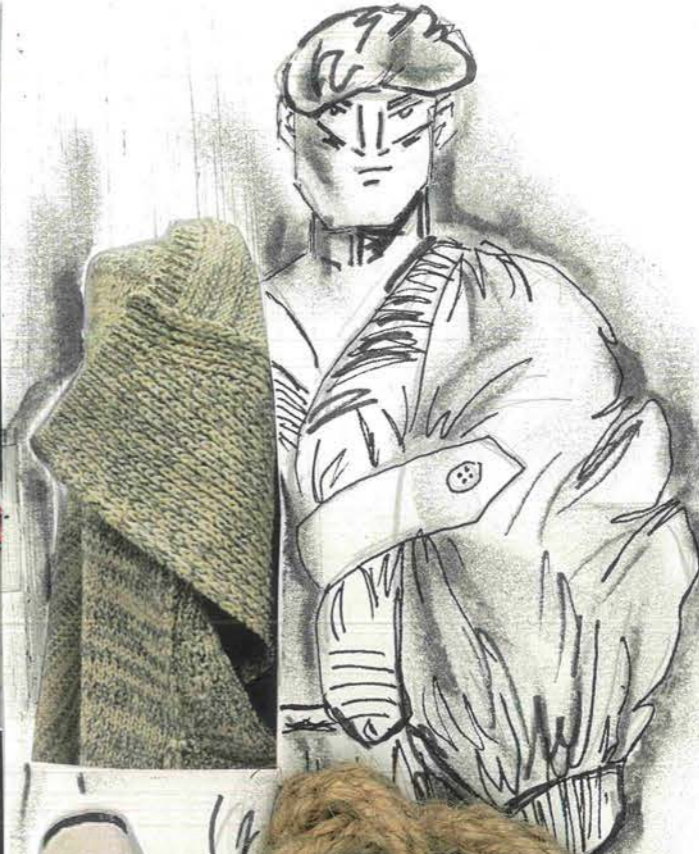

Collaging with the idea.

This collage of a trouser looks like a puffy bomber
jacket.

I love how this wool looks on the body. The lines of it takes our eyes all around it.

tracing the shapes
Created by draps
to develop.

I love how the
ripped fabric
Look on the body.

seeing the skin through
the ripped fabric
is like seeing the sad reality.

Look 1

This look is inspired by the drape I did with a military shirt and metal chains.

The military shirt looked like a long jacket on the mini mannequin.

This look has 3 garments. A shirt, Jacket and a trouser.

This hoodie is made with 3 upcycled
hoodies.

These
pockets are taken from discarded military uniforms.

Look 2

This look has 3 garments in it.
A jacket, trouser and a hoodie.
The jacket is inspired by the drape
in did which was developed to design.

Look 4

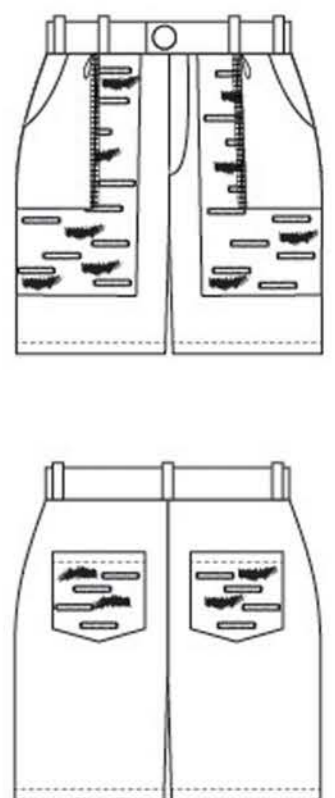

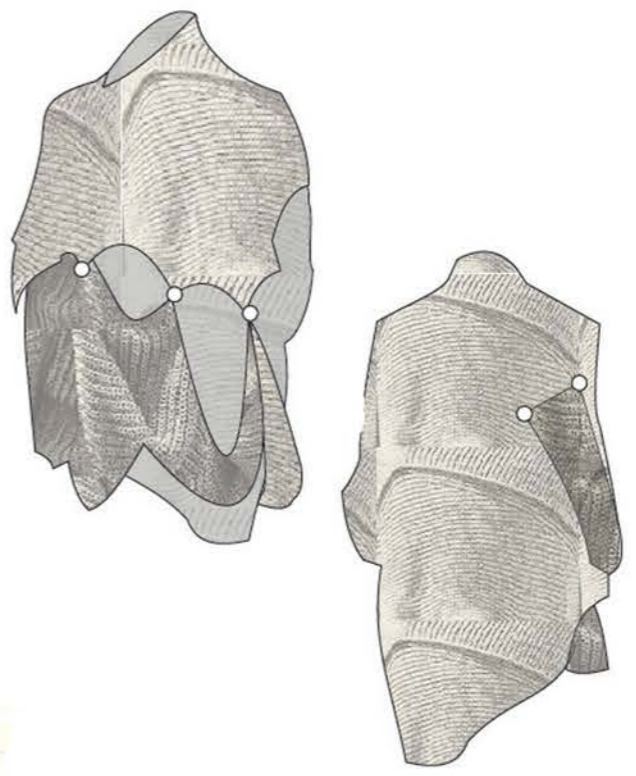

This look has a long jacket, shorts and a upcycled sweater.

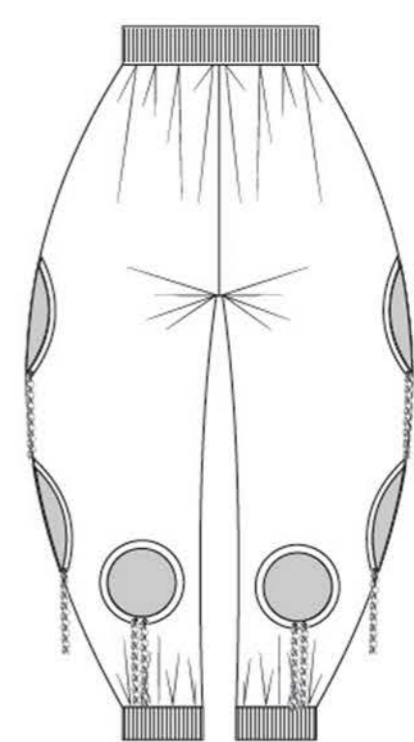

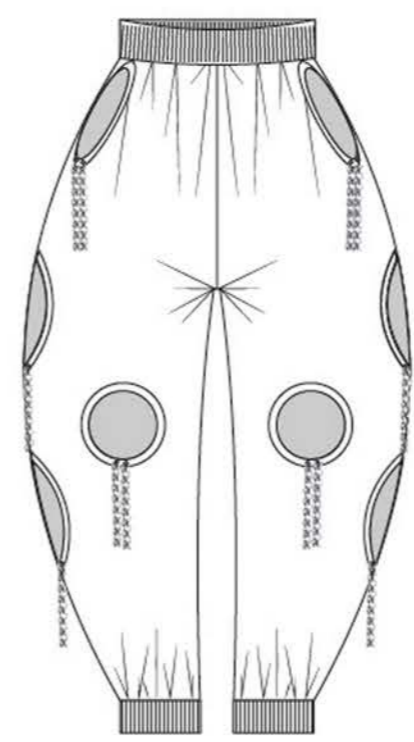

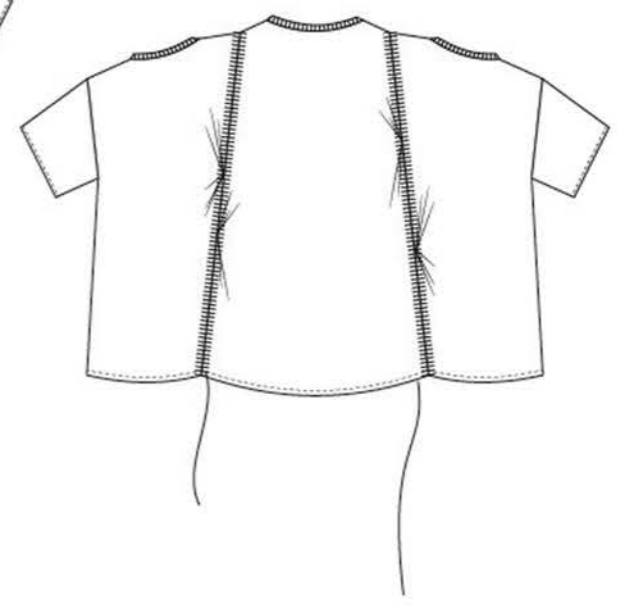

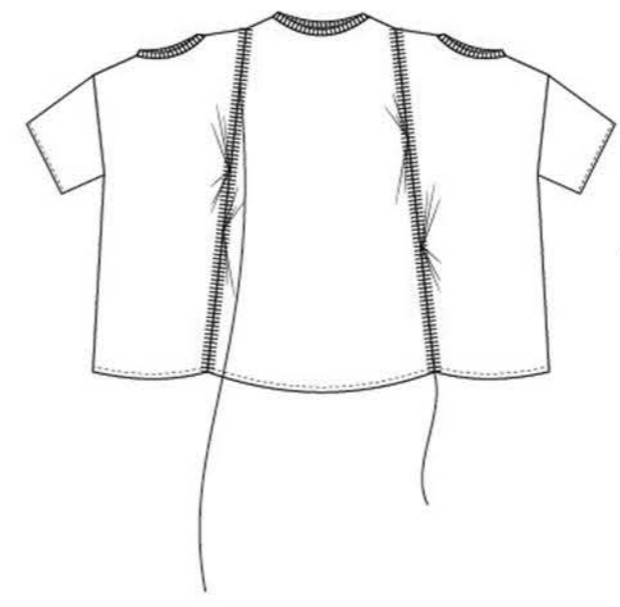

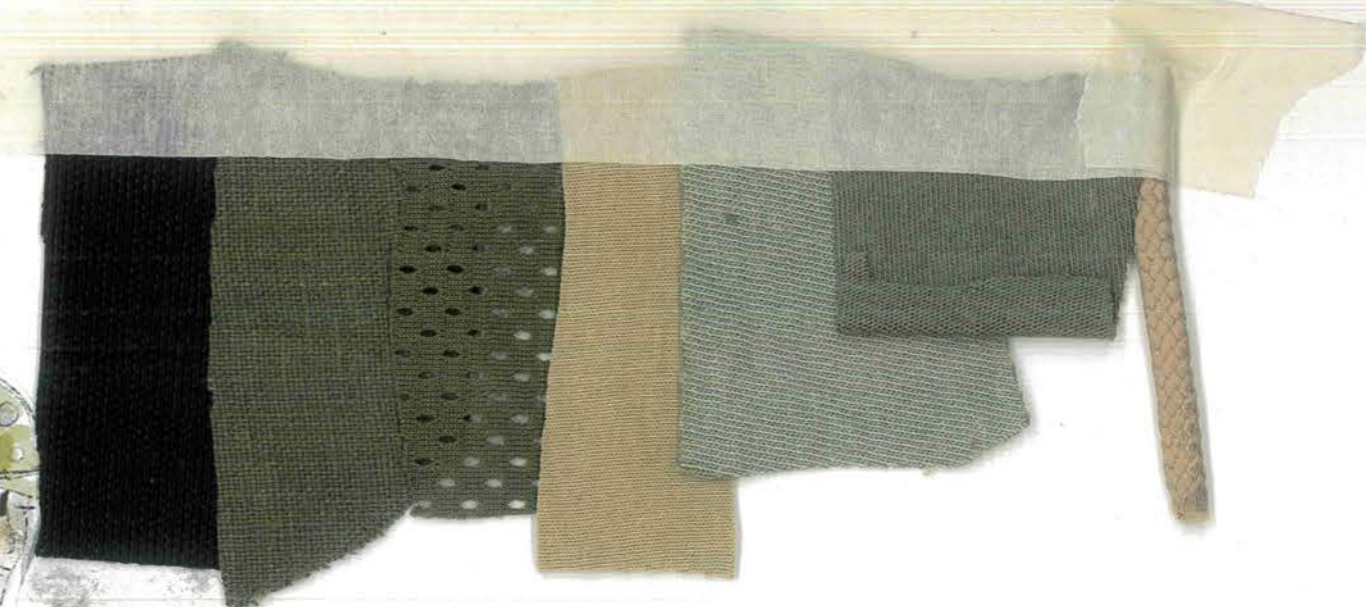

The military shirt on the mini mannequin, inspired this long upcycled jacket.

This long jacket is made with a upcycled military clothes. The top part is a military shirt and the bottom part is a military trouser cut in to two.

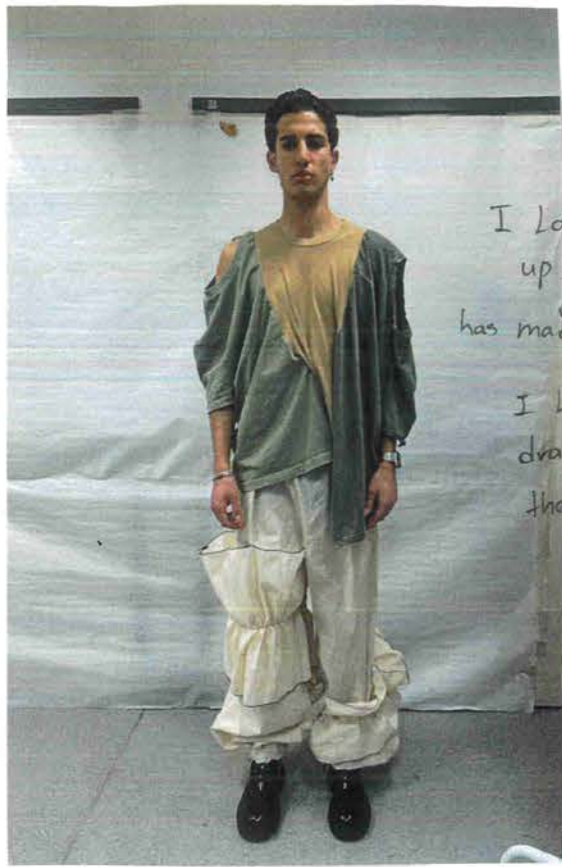

Look 5

This look has a upcycled t-shirt and a trouser with 4 pockets.

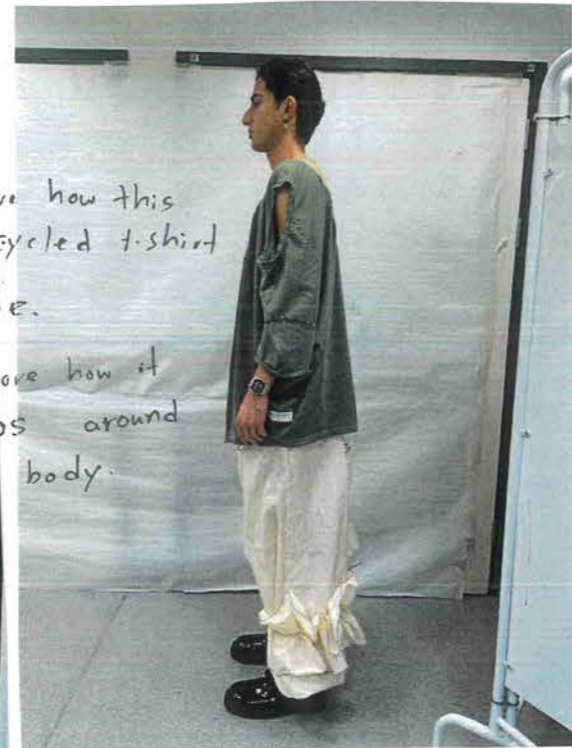

The round shapes and the openings on my draps inspired me to make a trouser with round spring pockets down the side of the leg trousers.

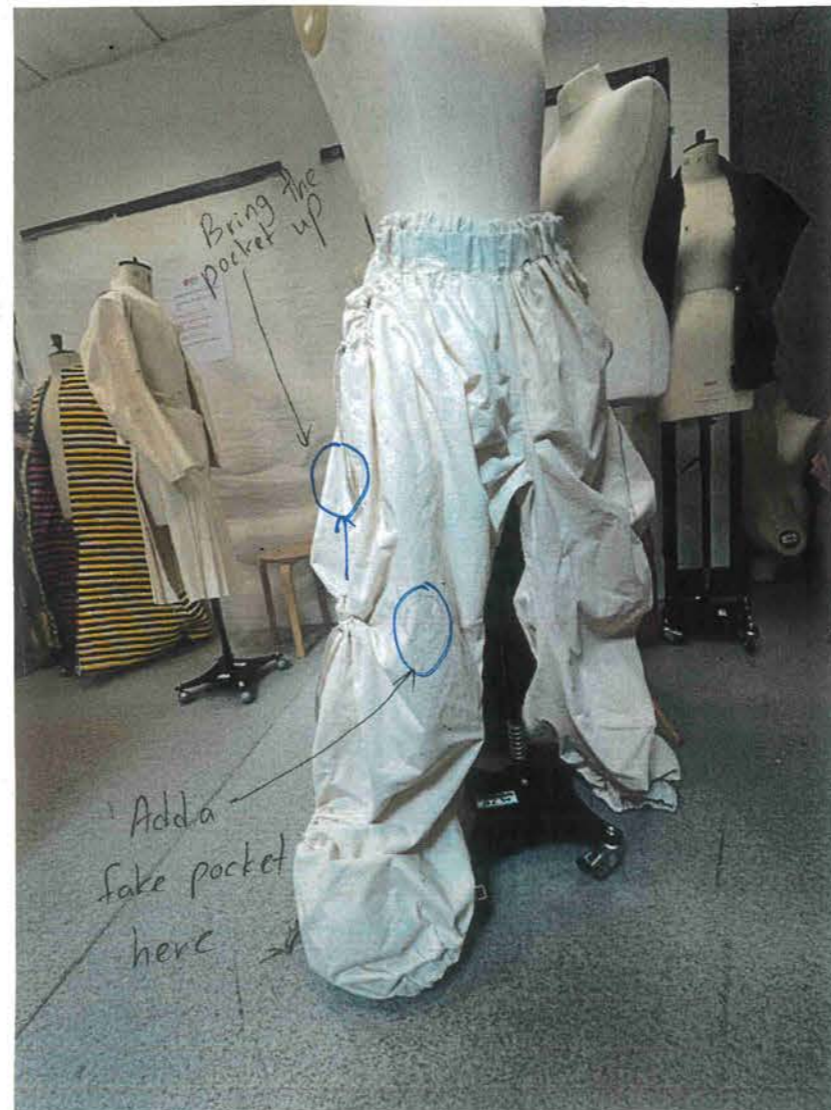

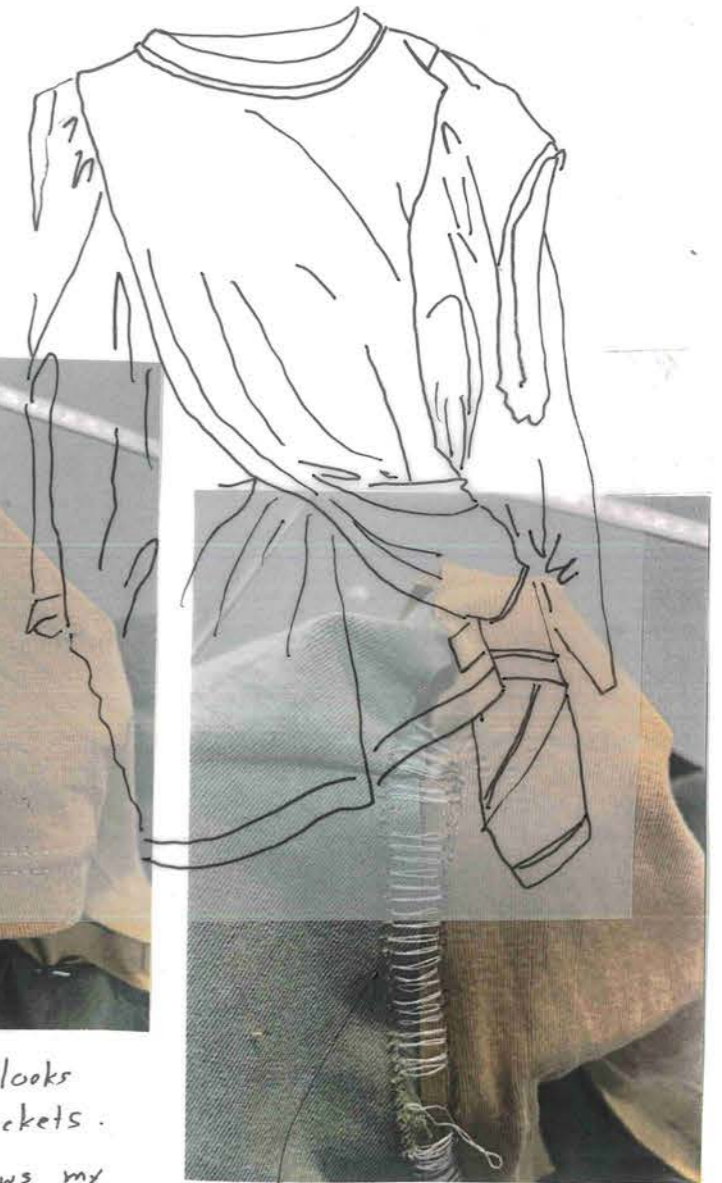

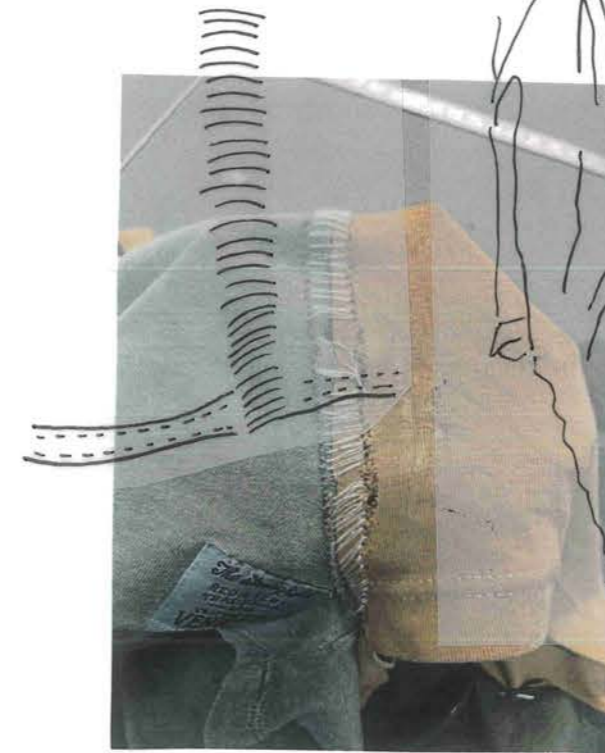

I Love how this upcycled t-shirt has made.

I Love how it draps around the body.

The color combination with the military t-shirt in the mibbles add so much to this t-shirt.

I love how this trouser looks when I close all the pockets. The gathers it creates shows my concept so well.

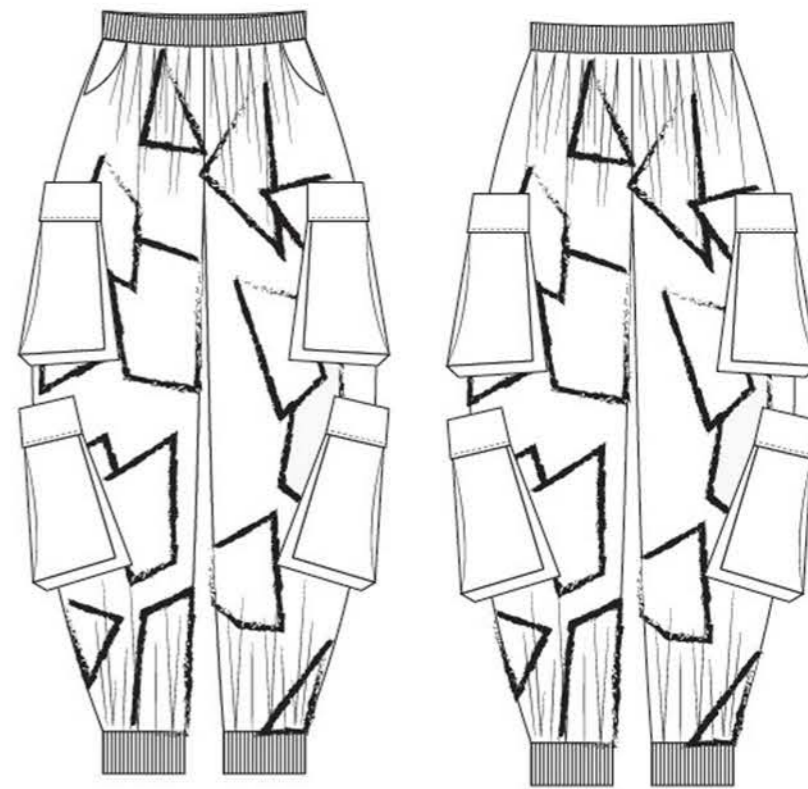

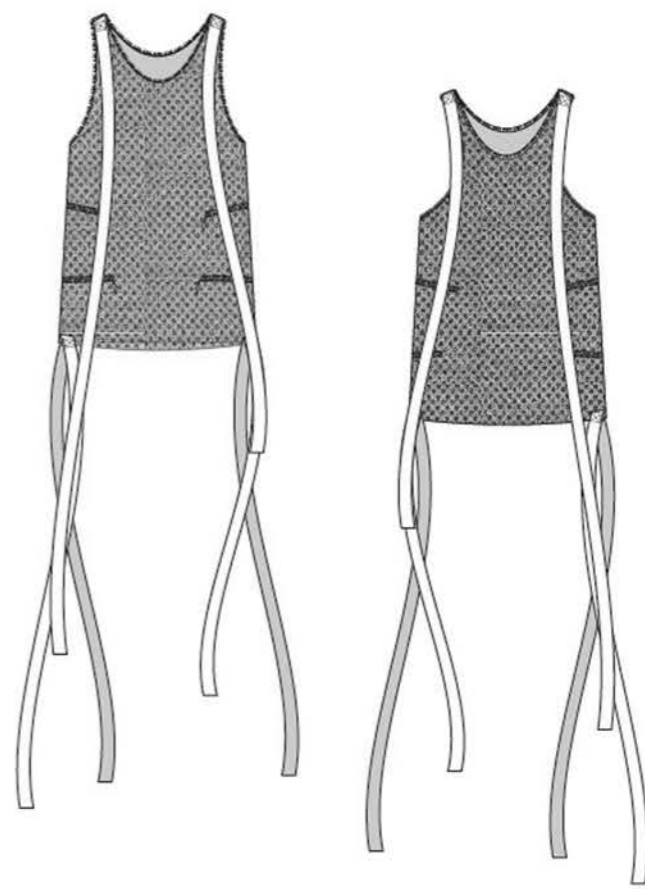

have to hand stitch these lines using a thicker thread.

This trouser has 4 pockets and 6 fake pockets.

Look 6

This look has a vest and a trouser. The vest has 4 straps going down and the trouser has 4 pockets and patch work on it.

This drape inspired me to create this trouser. I love how the layers of patch work looks on it.

straps over the shoulder and hanging.

the zips on the vest opens and reveals skin.
