Peggy Oystercamp

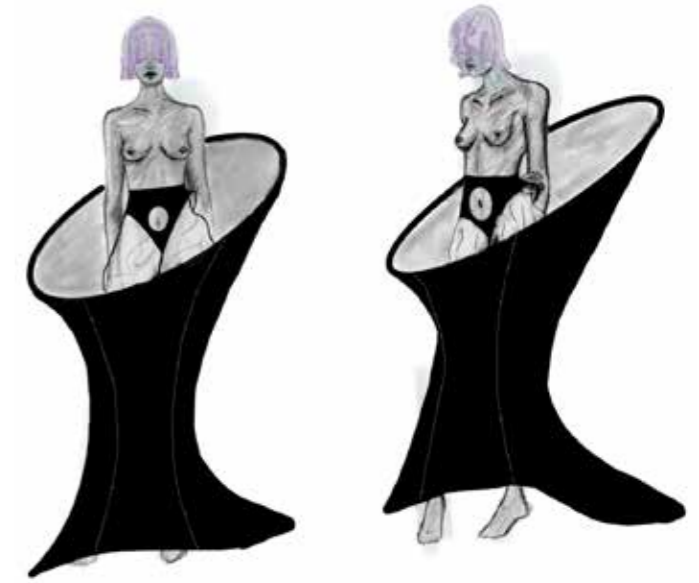

Testing the relation of space around the human form and representing space away from the body. Using a hula hoop and draped garments to see silhouette.

Sketching designs in wax crayon and charcoal to visualise silhouette opportunities
+ Digital illustrations of concept

Creating a tubular shape to experiment placement on the human form + experimenting with wired structure in material to develop a flared circle that can drape onto the body

Sketched multimedia and digital collage to see a broad spectrum of potential designs for representing an abstract concept in clothing

Vivienne Leigh to Marlene Dietrich femininity on the silver screen

Classic luxury velvets, lurex and glittering gold hanging from the body with the rebellious and androgynous forms from beloved rock stars of the 1970s

Freddie Mercury, Kiss and David Bowie inspire a tight silhouettes allowing freedom of the body and the mind in fashionable oddities.

Jumpsuits, 2 piece sets flowing skirts clinging to the hips and boisterous flair. Layers of fabric sitting like a second skin glitter under the stage lights with a draped sleeve or leg full of volume for that Hollywood flair..
