"Rébellion" shows a fusion of contemporary, street, and formalwear in its sophisticated menswear collection.

In today's fashion landscape, a search reveals a demand for smart/formal clothing and streetwear. My original design concept is influenced by my experiences in secondary school, the past and present riots in Paris, and my family's military background. In response to this demand, my menswear collection offers a fabrication of streetwear and formal aesthetics.

By blending elements of military uniforms with the rebellious spirit of street fashion, I aimed to reflect my personal journey but also speak to broader political narratives of identity, resistance, and expression.
